Teletriage — As the rise in COVID cases continues across the nation, the AMA is asking that teletriage be used prior to all face to face in-office appointments. Telehealth is the lifeline for patients with underlying conditions, and PracticeSuite's easy-to-implement Telemed App allows you to screen patients prior to arrival, keeping you, your staff, and your patients safer.

Application Highlights Include:- No software cost. No setup fees. No cost for training and on-boarding- Implement a teletriage program for in-office visits as soon as tomorrow- Expert assistance setting up your Telehealth workflow and billing processes- Patient friendly – Conduct e-visits on any device at the patient's disposal

We think you'll be pleasantly surprised when you see this affordable, HIPAA-compliant, and feature-rich application in action. We'll be happy to demonstrate the proven ROI of telehealth along with the newest billing codes that make it work financially at your convenience.

Tech Optimization:

It's clear telemedicine has never been more used or more vital during the COVID-19 pandemic. Combining reimbursement from payers and easing of restrictions, healthcare providers are making sure their technology is finely tuned. Utilizing telehealth and patient engagement to make it scalable across use-cases and workflows will enable healthcare provider organizations to see the best and optimal results.

Demands in technology are also at a rise. Cloud-based systems (such as PracticeSuite) offer flexibility, allowing one to access a centralized system from any endpoint which has an internet connection. Having this flexibility overcomes barriers associated with software installations and maintaining hardware. Investing in the patient experience also takes a step to the front during this pandemic. Spending time with patients making them comfortable using technology (such as Appointment Reminders) is important – to the practice bottom line, as well as, maintaining patient care.

Lastly, virtual waiting rooms and virtual observation is the next wave of technology optimization. Better workflows using technology can illuminate new and better workflows. Healthcare organizations can innovate using PracticeSuite and our partner marketplace to further reduce physical contact and keep patients safe.

Reset Patient Statement Count

PracticeSuite has created a new KPI Dashboard report to provide insights into your Practice's operational efficiencies and high level performance metrics from a billing and revenue standpoint. This report is a new addition to our report package and is your true performance dashboard. The report includes several key data points that helps answer the two critical questions for your Practice - "how are we doing?" and "what are our primary areas of improvement"? The dashboard comprises all the significant revenue cycle management performance metrics viz. net/gross collection rate, ar days, entry lags and many more. Furthermore, the report computes the current month's performance, comparing it with past 6 month's historical averages and illustrating the positive or negative variance between the period and to effortlessly discern the actual areas of improvement for your Practice. Practice and Billing

Managers should run the report periodically to identify any shortfall in operational and revenue cycle management efforts and to closely monitor the progress of their operations.

More information on the dashboard report is available in our academy help page -
